

PROGRAM SAMPLE

EXCITING ECOSYSTEMS

Students examine the characteristics of our local ecosystems including the food, resources, and shelter they provide and the organisms working to keep it all humming.

POWERFUL PLANTS

Students engage in up-close study of Pacific Northwest plants and develop their own means of classification while learning about the ways humans and animals alike benefit from plants.

ARCHERY

There's no better way to strengthen hand-eye coordination and focus than honing in on the bullseye at the end of our range. The staff will coach you in becoming more precise with each pull of the bowstring.

ABOUT US

The Cedar Outdoor School at Camp Pigott is a new, outdoor school program just a short drive away! We are excited to offer day programs for the 2023-2024 school year, beginning in spring. We have 1, 2 or 3-day sessions available. Our program combines NGSS-aligned environmental education with classic outdoor recreation.

OUR VISION

To foster connections with the natural world through experience

WHY CHOOSE US

We work with you to design a custom program. At just $45 per student, per day the flexibility of this program fits into your schools budget and schedule. This cost includes facilities, materials and the qualified staff to facilitate program offerings – including archery, climbing, and outdoor education instruction.

OUTDOOR ACADEMICS

Our Cedar Outdoor School offers a variety of NGSS-aligned lessons in geology, ecology and biology, that together, present an immersive Pacific Northwest-inspired curriculum. We believe in a multidisciplinary outdoor education that makes use of reading, writing, computations, histories and vocational skills.

RECREATION

The Cedar Outdoor School is proud to offer a variety of recreational experiences during your stay. We believe in using recreation to promote social-emotional learning and healthy play at camp. Our staff are prepared to ensure the safety and inclusion of all participants in these activities.

Camp Pigott is owned and operated by the Chief Seattle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

GROUNDING EDUCATION

Camp Pigott is situated in a pristine natural environment ripe with opportunities for student discovery! Our camp features nearly 900 acres of preserved wetland, lakes, forests & fields that nurture experimentation, curiosity and hands-on engagement with science concepts.
